Students assist with fishery project

by Jerry Grozelle

A three-way partnership between Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association and the Ministry of Natural Resources is paying dividends for the walleye fishery.

In 1995, the HHOA received a Community Fisheries Involvement Program (CFIP) grant to rehabilitate a walleye spawning bed on the west side of Head Lake at the Highway 121 bridge. With the project just a stone's throw from the high school, HHOA officials asked if any students would be interested in helping. Biology teacher Dave Mowat organized some students, who spent hours placing about 10 tonnes of rock in the spawning bed area. One of Mowat's students, Andy Madill, assumed much of the responsibility for placing the rock on the spawning bed.

As part of an ongoing commitment to the project, HHSS students are monitoring the site to determine the success of the rehabilitation process. This spring's spawning run is being monitored by HHSS students Andrew Graham and Mike Hamilton, with some help from other students.

The MNR provided some traps to catch hatching fry. But Graham came up

SUICIDE: Dispelling the myths, confronting the taboos

by Andrew Milne

David Campbell rolled up his sleeves and delved into the subject after a few too many funerals.

Campbell, a Coboconk area minister, recalls "I had buried four or five young people — young men — who had committed suicide. For me, that was four or five too many."

It's a disturbing subject... but the fact is that people do kill themselves. And apparently it is happening more often now than it used to.

The volunteers and the professionals who work in the field say the increase in the number of suicides and attempts probably means everyone should learn a little more about suicide, and what they can do to prevent it.

Says Charles Shames, a Peterborough-area volunteer who regularly talks with adolescents in the schools about the subject, "There are a lot of taboos, and there are a lot of myths... And I think it's really important people get over those. We have to talk about it, we have to understand it."

Most importantly, say Shames and Campbell — who, since his experience, has helped form a volunteer organization to fund a crisis intervention line for people contemplating suicide — people have to learn that a lot of what they think they know about the phenomenon is quite probably wrong, possibly dangerously so.

Probably among the more unfortunate myths, they say, is this: that someone who's talking about suicide isn't going to do it.

"On the contrary," says Shames. "If someone is talking about suicide, they're generally very serious. It should not be taken lightly. I can't stress this too strongly. If someone says to you something that sounds suicidal, you should prick up your ears, take notice... A lot of people assume that's just attention seeking, and somehow that means they're not going to have to deal with it... I'm not sure what the logic to that is, and maybe it is attention seeking — but if it is, that person is trying to bring your attention to something very, very important — so vitally important that they're thinking of killing themselves."

Signs and Symptoms

Talking about suicide, say the experts, is only one of many possible signs that someone may be thinking about it. Which leads to something else Shames, Campbell and a lot of others would really like people to know: there are indications given by people who may be considering suicide — signs the with the idea of using a fine meshed net to gather a few eggs. The eggs were taken to the school's biology lab, where they were studied under a microscope.

"Every one of the eggs we examined had been fertilized," Mowat said.

Students in Mowat's class are currently studying shoreline ecology, so the project is not only of benefit to the fishery, but also to education.

"Andrew and Mike are both avid fishermen," Mowat said. "They feel like they are making a positive contribution to the environment."

When Mowat asked his class if anyone was interested in monitoring the success of the spawning bed rehabilitation project, Graham and Hamilton volunteered.

Mowat compared the school's involvement as "our little piece in the jigsaw puzzle." He is really pleased with the partnership.

"We've had nothing but really positive help from the MNR," he said. "This is a big, exciting program. The outdoors association is phenomenally important to the fish. We have to support them."

Mowat added that fish are very important to Haliburton County, bringing a lot of people into the county to take advantage of the fishing opportunities.

Mowat said he spoke with Dave Johnson at the spring meeting of the HHOA. Some of Mowat's students went to the meeting to explain the ELM Project to association members. The HHOA is a financial supporter of ELM, which stands for Energy, Lifestyles and Matter. ELM is a group of high school students teaching elementary school kids about the environment in an outdoor theatre setting.

Johnson, who is the MNR's liaison with the HHOA, suggested that Mowat see if any of his students would be interested in monitoring the spawning success of the rehabilitated site. Biologist Dana Kinsman also provided some expertise and the fry traps, which were borrowed from the Frost Centre.

"It's nice to have the follow-up," Johnson said. "To see that it's actually working is great."

SUICIDE: Education will help stem the increase

alert observer can notice, often in time to offer assistance.

It is for both these reasons — the mythology that surrounds suicide, and the possibility of empowering people to see the warning signs — that Barb Moffatt believes educating the community about suicide has such promise.

Moffatt is a Peterborough area mental health consultant, who, in cooperation with the District Health Council, Campbell's committee, and local volunteers, is organizing a seminar on the subject of suicide this coming Thursday, as part of Mental Health Week.

"There is a stigma attached to suicide," says Moffatt. "It prevents people from talking about it, and understanding it. And that's too bad, because we're probably all better off knowing more about it... One of the messages I like to emphasize is that you really can't say who's going to wind up listening when someone needs to talk about suicide, so knowing about it is really of use to everyone."

Campbell, from his experience, concurs. "My own children have found themselves talking about it with other teens... My son talked to someone on the bus about it once. Teenagers are one of the highest risk groups, and suicide is the second most significant cause of death in young people, second only to accidental death... People seem to have this idea that it's rare, that it's never going to happen to anyone they know, that it's never going to be their problem. It's not that rare, and it's probably more common than we know — But there's a reluctance to discuss it that makes it difficult for people to realize that."

While there are high risk groups — particularly the elderly, the mentally ill, and adolescents — Moffatt has another message to get across, in the face of myth: suicide is a decidedly democratic phenomenon. It can take anyone, at any age, in any economic sector. There are not, she says, as popular culture might have it, suicidal 'types'. Nor is there, therefore, anyone who simply is not the suicidal type. The symptoms of suicidal behaviour can pop up anywhere, and when they do, she says, they should be addressed.

The symptoms cover a range of behaviours. Apart from the most obvious and most direct — actually expressing a wish to kill oneself — there are number of danger signs that might suggest it's time to find the courage to broach the subject. These include:

- distinct change in personality or behaviour, especially sleeplessness, weight loss, a loss in appetite or sexual drive, and/or generally withdrawn behaviour,

- the making of a will, and/or the writing of poetry or stories about suicide or death,

- quietly putting affairs in order, 'taking care of business' as though in preparation for death — a potentially suicidal person may even give away prized personal possessions. "That last one," says Campbell "should be a red flag. If the guy loves his guitar, doesn't let anyone touch it, and then just hands it over to someone, you should be paying attention",

- self-mutilation — counsellors report regularly seeing people who injure themselves repeatedly and almost ritually — sometimes with sharp instruments or with the flames from a lighter — who thereafter progress to attempting suicide. Says Shames, "I spoke with one young woman who had been doing this, scarring herself — she would pour hot water on her skin — I asked her why she did this, and she talked about how in her family it was unacceptable to express negative emotions, and it's like it just had to go somewhere... It was a way of feeling something, anything negative, and she needed to feel something... But it often escalates towards suicide."

- an increase in the use of alcohol and other drugs, and

- an increase in risk-taking behaviour — careless driving, the dangerous use of firearms.

In addition to these, a previous attempt, or a diagnosed mental illness are two more very obvious reasons people should be especially alert. Says Shames, "There are people who will attempt suicide again and again. That doesn't make the next attempt any less serious. The next time, they might succeed... It doesn't matter if it's the first time or the fiftieth, you've got to take it seriously, and you've got to get them help."

Talking it over

From there, the important thing to do, is to talk it over — and that comes up against myth number three.

"People seem to believe," says Moffatt, "that you run the risk of putting the idea in someone's head by mentioning suicide if they haven't already... That's not how it works at all. And it's important to get that word out, get them talking, if that's what they're thinking."

Says Shames, "For a lot of people, when someone is down or doesn't seem well, the first instinct is to think they need to be alone, to give them some room. But that's not what they need. Not if they're thinking of suicide. That's absolutely the last thing they need."

"What they need is to talk to someone. They need someone to reach out... That's often a very hard thing to do, making that first contact. But that's what you've got to do."

Furthermore, says Shames, if someone mentions suicide, or displays any of the more obvious symptoms, that's probably a cry for help, at the very least, it's an (unspoken) invitation to speak.

"They may not come right out and say let's talk about this," he says. "Because it is difficult to talk about, and the underlying problems might be very difficult to talk about. But that's what they're saying when they're hurting themselves... They're saying they're hurting, and they need to talk. It's an invitation."

Being able to talk to someone is particularly important in part because people thinking of suicide generally feel very isolated, at the end of their resources, with no other direction out but the most final.

Says Shames, "That's the central thing, the most striking thing, in all the people I've counselled. They'll say they've tried everything, there was nothing else they could do, they didn't see any other way. If they get talking to someone else, other possibilities can be opened... That can be tricky, especially if they're right on the verge, because really, you can't tell them what they have to do. They have to find their own way. You can throw out the possibilities, you can make a million suggestions, but in the end it's up to them — they've got to make the choice, they've got to take the action... And that can be kind of scary."

More than talking, say counsellors, the most important thing to do is to listen.

"The person contemplating suicide probably has a lot bottled up," says Shames. "It might have been something they've been thinking about for a very long time. They need to get it out, so you've got to listen... really listen to get to know their situation, to help them work through it. They think it's hopeless, but that doesn't mean they don't still have options. But you're not going to know what those are unless you listen."

Professional help

Once they do start talking, where to go from there depends on how far along they are, and what's available. If someone is 'in process' — has already swallowed the pills, for example — the priority is obviously to get them medical attention by any means possible, as quickly as possible. And people who have just swallowed a handful of pills will pick up the phone and call just after doing so.

Says Moffatt, "They're not common calls, but it happens. There's always ambivalence. There's always a part of them that wants to live, so it comes down to the balance between wanting to live and wanting to get out of whatever it is they're trying to get away from... That balance can shift at any time. Or they might just suddenly need to hear a human voice... So sometimes we will hear from someone that's in that situation, who has already ingested the pills for example, and obviously, we've got to get them to a hospital emergency department."

If they haven't yet gone that far, a lot depends on who they are willing to speak to, says Shames. "They need someone to talk to. Ideally, they should be put in touch with a mental health professional as quickly as possible. That's the best thing, because these people are trained and nonjudgemental, which is often very important. If the person considering suicide isn't ready to do that, then obviously anyone they are willing to talk to will play an important role."

That someone might be found at a crisis or suicide prevention centre, or it could be the family physician, a member of the clergy, a school councillor, even a teacher in the case of adolescents. Hospitals, in some areas, will have a psychiatric staff who will be able to help.

Increases are baffling

The counsellors aren't sure why the rate of suicide appears to be rising. They venture, with the caveat that they are only guesses, the obvious possibilities — a difficult economy, high unemployment — all factors that add stress to human lives. Says Moffatt, "We know unemployment is a factor — it's not an immediate factor, but it leads to poverty, and that leads to other things — the link has been established. So the fact that rates are a little higher in this area isn't surprising."

All of that, however, she says, is somewhat beside the point of what they're trying to do. "What we can address," she says, "right here, right now, is to teach people what they need to know to help each other, and that's what we're trying to do... Wherever local committees have been established, they've been a huge success, just in educating people, and in raising awareness. If you know what you can do before that call comes in or someone approaches you with their problems, it's a little easier. So I urge people — find out. Get involved. It's well worth it."

The mental health planning group's seminar takes place at 7:00 p.m. May 8 at the Legion Hall in Haliburton village. Organizers emphasize that everyone is welcome. If you or someone you know needs to talk about suicide, get in touch with a member of the clergy, your family doctor or call any of these distress centres: Telecare Haliburton number (forwards to Peterborough) 457-3617; Telecare Northern Victoria (Fenelon Falls number, forwards to Lindsay) 887-3690; Telecare Peterborough 745-2273; Telecare Lindsay 878-4411.

Reagan Brown wins HDREB logo contest

The Haliburton District Real Estate Board decided recently that it needed a logo for its letterhead, advertising and other promotional areas.

It was decided to hold a logo contest for students of Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. Linda Baumgartner, past president of the Board, coordinated the contest, with HHSS principal Gary Brohman and art teacher Dave Stephenson.

A total of 23 logos were submitted and from those, a panel of Board members selected the one which best symbolized the local real estate atmosphere.

That logo was designed by Grade 10 student Reagan Brown.

Baumgartner said the directors felt that the logo portrayed the rural area with the trees, water and the log building.

As winner of the contest, Brown received a cash award of $100.

Campaign opens to mixed review

We sense a mood of lethargy in the country regarding the upcoming federal election: perhaps the result of the lengthy period of speculation which preceded the calling of the vote and the subsequent announcement that caught no one by surprise. Or perhaps Canadians are just too busy worrying about the day-to-day challenges to find the time to be concerned about the state of the country as a whole.

Whatever the cause, the Liberals made a major blunder forcing an election before the natural end of their mandate. Not only does the early call make the ruling party appear arrogant and opportunistic, it provides ammunition for those who suggest that politicians have no interest beyond furthering their own places in power.

The political parties are well aware of the disenchantment of the public. The Liberals are tip-toeing around the country defending their tattered record and promising little. Unfortunately, their opponents appear to have little more to grab the interest of the voters: tax breaks built on dubious accounting, hand-outs that woo voters with their own money, recycled promises that have gone unfulfilled in the past. Is it any wonder that voters are anything but swept away by the opportunity to troop to the polls yet again?

We sense in this frustration a resentment that melts old loyalties and will make it very difficult for political parties to call on the party faithful to carry them through to victory. This attitude, if it is sustained through to the end of the campaign, will be most disastrous for the Liberals and could lead to a major upset come the evening of June 2.

No different than any other illness

Editor:

In response to "Seeking More Understanding", (letter to the Editor April 28, 1997).

The candor of Donna Wu's letter succinctly articulates the struggles of individuals who are afflicted with mental illness and of their families in our society. The pervasive societal notion that mental illness is different than any other physical anomaly, shows that there is much to be done in the area of educating the public about mental illness.

May 4-10 is Mental Health Week in Ontario. In an effort to promote mental health awareness, for the past two years, the Mental Health Planning Group for Haliburton County has sponsored public seminars which address Mental Health issues. In 1995, the topic was Families of the Mentally Ill and last year Schizophrenia was discussed. This year's topic is Suicide Awareness. The seminar will be held at the Haliburton Legion on Thursday, May 8 at 7 p.m.

Only through public education will the dark veil of mental illness be lifted and individuals suffering from this disease and their families be part of a community that no longer stigmatizes and fears them.

Maureen Johnson, Management Committee Consumer/Survivor Network of Peterborough Victoria and Haliburton Counties.

Vandalism hurts everyone

Editor:

Stop the Insanity!

This is a saying we hear everywhere and I thought it appropriate for what someone has been destroying in Stanhope.

We are very fortunate to have a council who believes in most of the ideas the Recreation Committee has put before them. This spring six new Community Events boards were built and placed around the township. The one at the Hawk Lake dump survived three days before someone decided to sneak into the dump after hours, smash glass all over the place and, I guess, for good measure to them, throw rocks through the new plexiglass on the board and shatter it.

You can guess how angry this made us, especially Garth Mole who volunteered his time to build these boards.

That was not the end. The following Thursday, again after hours, three of our picnic tables at the Elvin Johnson Park were smashed and burned.

The summer season has not even started so the old adage of "it must be the tourists" cannot be the case. It has to be local residents.

These items are provided for the pleasure and use of Stanhope taxpayers. Trashing items that belong to Stanhope Township is like smashing your own belongings. Why? Because all monies to replace these items has to come from the budget which comes from Stanhope ratepayers' taxes. If you have information about these incidents or see someone destroying public property, please call the township office at 489-2379.

Hit and run inconsiderate

Editor:

This letter is directed to the inconsiderate person who hit our dog Rocky on Highway 121 across from Steven's Farm Road on April 28 at approximately 9:30 p.m.

I hope if you have children you don't treat them the way you did my dog, by just hitting him with your vehicle and throwing him in the ditch like he was a piece of garbage.

He was part of our family and a part of us. He was the same age as our son and to us it was like the loss of one of our children.

Rocky is with God now but he is still very much in our hearts and will be forever. We loved you Rocky and we miss you terribly.

Sonya, Mike & Chantel Smith,
Minden.

Track star for the 90's

If I'd known I was going to live this long I'd have taken better care of myself.

Eubie Blake

You said it Eubie. I'm not nearly as ancient as the legendary ivory tickler was when he made that observation, but I know what he was talking about.

Each morning I look at my reflection in the bathroom mirror and think the same sad thought: If I'd known I was going to live this long, why did I... gotoallthoseparties eatallthatjunkfooddoallallthosedrugsdrinkallthat boozesmokeallthosecigarettes?

There is an old story about a circus strong man known around the world for his ability to lift incredible weights off the ground. A newspaper reporter asked him how he came to be so mighty. The strong man replied that he'd been raised on a cattle farm. One day in his youth, as he was carrying a newborn calf to its mother, it occurred to him that it wouldn't be too long before that little calf would be too heavy to lift.

Unless....

Unless he made a practice of lifting the calf each and every day!

He did--and that's how he came to be a circus strongman.

Or so the story goes. I'm not too interested in running off to join the circus, but I admire the man's determination. And it occurs to me that if I had touched my toes a half a dozen times or done a few deep knee bends every time that guy picked up his calf, I'd see a helluva lot svelter silhouette each time I look in the bathroom mirror.

Ah well. Too late for that. But I regret my sedentary ways every now and then.

For instance, every time I think of Everett W. Hosack.

Hosack is a track and field champ. Let me quote his reviews:

"Hosack, bright young hurdler, will uphold the standard in the obstacle races. This athlete...has blossomed out into a formidable hurdle hopper."

What you need to know to put that review in perspective, is that it appeared in the Gainesville, Florida Daily Sun of May 2, 1924. What you also need to know is that Everett W. Hosack is still competing--setting world records at the age of 95.

This spring, Hosack travelled to Birmingham, England to the European Indoor Veterans Athletics Championships where he set a world record for the long jump.

In his age category, it must be added. And since he was the only entrant in the 95-99 year age bracket, his triumph was a bit of a forgone conclusion.

But Everett Hosack has no illusions about his win. "The only reason I am excelling now," he says, "is that I have outlived all my competitors."

Still---would you, at your age, like to get up in front of a stadium full of spectators and try your luck at the long jump? Everett Hosack jumped six feet, eight inches--and he is 95.

It's been a busy year for Hosack. He set world records at the Kent State Indoor Masters Meet in Ohio and at the Masters Indoor Championships in Greensboro, North Carolina.

Then there is his triumph at the North Coast Masters Indoor Championships and the Cleveland Classics Masters Meet. Nothing to compare, of course, with Hosack's achievement at the World Championship in Japan, where he carved a phenomenal 21 seconds off the world record for 400 metres.

Mind you, that was back in 1993. Hosack was only 91 then.

I managed to catch up with Everett Hosack between track meets last month. I asked him if he had any advice for a pudgy, out of shape, over the hill guy about half his age. Should I take up weight training? Join a gym? Start jogging?

"Not really," he said. "I used to preach vigorous exercise for all, but now I believe you should just do what makes you happy. It makes me happy to compete."

And it makes me happy not to. Thank you Everett W. Hosack.

I feel fitter already.

New service helps job seekers

"One-stop shopping" for employment services comes to Haliburton. People with employment concerns in the county will be able to access both Federal and Provincial services under one roof beginning today.

May 5 is the date that federal services, currently offered through the Haliburton County Employment Resource Centre, will be offered in partnership with Sir Sanford Fleming College and the new Career Employment and Preparation Program (CEPP).

The new amalgamated office location will be on the second floor on the Village Court Plaza - above the Pharmacy at Maple Avenue and Victoria Street in Haliburton. At the new site, applications for Employment Insurance and Income Security programs will be available, as well as job vacancies, information on job search and career decision-making, assessment and eligibility for Human Resources Development Canada programs. Fleming's Career and Employment Preparation program will offer assessment, preparation for training and subsidized job placement for qualified job seekers. Counseling and assessment services will be available on the premises as well as the combined resources of the two organizations to create a state-of-the-art, self-serve resource centre.

by Times Staff

In the resource centre, job seekers can create their own resume, access jobs available across the country through the two HRDC job bank kiosks, view a video on interviewing strategies, or use automated tools such as Careerware's CHOICES to assess their own interests and abilities before discussing training and placement opportunities with a trained staff member.

Earlier this year, Human Resources Development Canada and SSFC entered into a technological partnership to increase access to training and services for residents of Hali-burton. Through their combined resources, new technology has been introduced to the Haliburton Sisco campus to develop a Learning Resource Centre to link with LRC Services at other Fleming campus locations. Interactive technology and state-of-the-art computers will enable students and clients to have enhanced access to training and services. "By bringing our resources and expertise together, we have been able to really develop greater capacity in the community for clients to obtain employment services", said Rebecca Kingdon, spokesperson for Human Resources Development Canada in Peterborough.

"Both organizations will realize efficiencies through shared services and expertise" said Janet Honsberger, Campus Operations Leader at SSFC's Sisco Centre, "While clients will have access to services and programs of both levels of government in one location."

The snow has finally decided to melt and I think spring is here at last. It seems to have been a long time coming. However, this year we lost the last of the snow, in most areas, around April 17 or 18. Last April it was about the 23rd before most of the snow was gone. Is this then an early Spring? April has hopefully lightened the hearts of many as we have had 20 days of wonderful sunshine. Although we had a few days of snow (6) in the month, the sunshine has made a bright and happy month, weather-wise. The temperatures this year have been much warmer with 5 degrees C to 20 degrees C in the first week of April. The middle two weeks seemed to hover around 5 degrees to 8 degrees C while the last week remained in the teens giving us a nice end to the month.

Trivia: •The average surface temperature of the earth is 15 degrees C.

•Without the Greenhouse Effect it would be a chilly -18 degrees C.

•Canada warmed by 1.1 degrees C between 1895 and 1995.

One last tournament nets championship for Minden hockey team

Atom A Monarchs win Sutton tournament

by Jerry Grozelle

After a month in storage, the atom A Monarchs donned their skates April 19 for a tournament in Sutton for the host team's Spring Tournament. It might have been expected if the Monarchs had been a little rusty in the hockey skills department after a month off the ice. But the Monarchs picked up where they left off, winning three consecutive games to earn the tournament championship.

Minden 3, Essa 2

Minden started off with a game against Essa. The Monarchs struck early, with Sean Keaney scoring at the 1:14 mark of the first period. Zachary Joanu assisted. Just 14 seconds later, Andrew Bull made it 2-0, assisted by Darrin Brown.

Essa got one back with 1:57 remaining in the opening frame.

The score remained at 2-1 in favour of Minden almost to the end of the second period. But with seven seconds left, Essa scored to knot the game at 2-2 going into the third.

Sean Keaney's second marker of the contest, at the 5:40 mark of the 10-minute third frame lifted the Monarchs to a 3-2 win. Brown set that one up, for his second assist of the game.

Nick Wallace, in the Minden net, with the help of the defensive unit, kept Essa off the scoreboard for the third period.

Minden 12, Sutton 1

Buoyed by the win over Essa, the Monarchs rolled over the host Sutton team in their second game. Minden thumped the opposition 12-1 to earn a berth in the championship final.

Cody Mills paced the Monarchs with a hat trick in the romp over Sutton. Sean Keaney, Andrew Bull and Aaron Keaney notched two goals apiece and single markers were added to the Minden tally by Adam Gough, Darrin Brown and Zachary Joanu.

Minden's atom A Monarchs hockey team donned the skates for one last tournament in Sutton on April 19. Even after being off the ice for a month, the Monarchs were still in fine form, skating to victory in all three games to bring home the tournament championship hardware. Team members show off their individual trophies after the win.

Minden 4, Woodville 3

The championship game was against Woodville, a team that always gave the Monarchs some good competition during the regular season. The championship game would be no exception.

Darrin Brown scored two goals a dozen seconds apart near the end of the first period for a 2-0 Minden lead. Andrew Bull assisted on the first goal and the second was unassisted.

Woodville cut Minden's lead in half with a goal a minute and 15 seconds before the buzzer sounded to end the first period.

Like Minden's first game of the tournament, the Monarchs were held scoreless in the middle frame and late in the period, Woodville evened the score at 2-2.

Then, with 5:10 remaining in the third, Woodville took the lead for the first time.

It took the Monarchs just 15 seconds to score the equalizer. Cody Mills was the marksman who notched the unassisted tying goal.

Overtime loomed as the clock wound its way down to the last minute of play in the third period. But Sean Keaney eliminated the need for overtime when he scored with 50 seconds left. That unassisted goal gave the Monarchs the championship hardware.

Soap box derby set for July 1

by Jerry Grozelle

It's time to start planning for the 1997 Minden District Lions Club Soap Box Derby, which will be held on Canada Day.

Maurice Boyd of the Lions Club said the details haven't been ironed out yet, but he wants anyone who is interested in participating to have enough time to prepare for the race.

"The specifications will be the same as last year," Boyd said. "Registration sheets will be ready by about the middle of May."

Rules and regulations

Participation in the Lions Soap Box Derby on Canada Day is subject to some regulations. Following are the rules and specifications:

1. Gravity is the only form of motive power allowed.

2. Cars must run on four wheels, two front and two back. All four wheels must touch the ground at all times when racing.

3. Feet must be foremost when the driver is in racing position.

4. A properly fitting helmet must be worn. Bicycle, motorcycle, football or hockey helmets are acceptable. Full face protection is preferred.

5. Drivers must wear shoes during the competition.

6. Some sort of brake, capable of stopping the car in a short, straight line, with no damage to the road surface, is mandatory.

7. A headrest, capable of restraining any sudden backward movement of the head, is required.

8. Wheels may be between six and 12 inches in diameter and must have rubber tires. The wheels must be of sturdy construction.

9. Weight of the car plus the driver must not exceed 250 pounds (113.4 kg). No ballast may be added after the safety check has been completed.

10. Dimensions: A - Axle length (front and rear) must be a minimum of 30 inches (76.2 cm) and a maximum of 36 inches (91.5 cm). B - Protrusion of axle beyond wheel is limited to a maximum of one inch (2.5 cm). C - Maximum overall length of the car is 84 inches (213.4 cm). D - Wheelbase must be a minimum of 40 inches (101.6 cm). E - Ground clearance must be a minimum of three inches (7.6 cm).

The ninth end

The ice is long gone and the rocks carefully stowed away, but the memories of the 1996-97 season are still fresh in the minds of members of the Minden Curling Club. They gathered last month to mark the end of the season with a banquet and awards night. The photos on this page highlight some of the presentations made that evening.

MONDAY NIGHT CHAMPS: Paul Prentice presents the Prentice-Berry Trophy to representatives from the Monday Ladies' League champions, vice Carol Puffer (left) and lead Jean May. Skip Nancy Garbutt and second Liz Cowen were absent.

MIXED CHAMPS: Dave Dollo (left) presented the Dollo's IGA trophy to the overall mixed playoff champion team of Bob Pollard (skip), Dana Kinsman (vice) and Mark Comeau (second). Lead Anne Knight was absent.

MEN'S PLAYOFF CHAMPS: The rink of Jim Garbutt (skip), vice Ross Bryant, second Keith Oitment and lead Jeff Oitment won the Men's playoff championship. Blair Bailey (left) presented the Victoria Laundry Trophy to Keith Oitment and Jeff Oitment.

THURSDAY NIGHT CHAMPIONS: Receiving the Home Hardware trophy from Bonnie Pentney, right, are skip Bob Pollard and vice Dana Kinsman. Other members of the foursome included Graham Knight second and Anne Knight, lead.

Haliburton teams win both boys' and girls' divisions

Students from three elementary schools in Haliburton County, J.D. Hodgson, Cardiff and Archie Stouffer Elementary School, and Ridgewood Public School in Coboconk travelled to Minden Thursday to participate in a basketball tournament. The round-robin event included five boys' (two from Minden) and four girls' teams.

According to event organizer, physical education teacher Dan LaPierre, the day-long tournament was a success, with all teams playing well and demonstrating good sportsmanship. The tournament was jointly sponsored by MDS Laboratories and Ridgewood Ford. Tournament officials were students from Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

The winning teams were from J.D. Hodgson School in Haliburton. In both final contests, the opposing team were from Archie Stouffer Elementary School.

GOING ONCE... Auctioneer Orval McLean coaxes the bidders as Clayton Cameron displays a hand-made afghan donated by Diane Austin at the third annual Dinner/Auction in support of the Kinmount Heritage Park Project. The event raised about $8,500.

Dinner/Auction raises $8,500

The third annual Dinner and Auction in Support of the Austin Sawmill/Parkland Development Project raised an estimated $8,500. The event was held at the Galway Hall April 26.

The funds are earmarked for the stabilization of the sawmill's structure, which has been completed. The next step in the overall plan is to renovate the inside of the mill on the way to transforming it into working condition.

"Everybody seemed to have a good time at the Dinner/Auction," said Clayton Cameron, chairman of the organizing committee.

A total of 180 people attended the event.

Pianist Vivian Hetherington and clarinet player Don Wright entertained before the dinner got started.

PICKING A WINNER?: Patrons of the third annual Dinner/Auction in support of the Kinmount Heritage Park Project had plenty of raffle prizes to try their luck at winning. About 180 people attended the event.

Hodgson signs agreement with Ducks Unlimited

Natural Resources Minister Chris Hodgson has signed the first-ever perpetual agreement between Ducks Unlimited Canada and a province.

The signing ceremony took place recently at Long Point Bay, a significant marsh complex on Lake Erie.

"This agreement reflects the government's long-term commitment to the conservation of Ontario's wetlands and our desire to work closely with groups such as Ducks Unlimited that have a history of successful conservation work," said Hodgson.

Under the agreement, Ducks Unlimited and MNR will combine resources to implement a long-term wetland conservation program to benefit waterfowl, other wetland-dependent species and the people of Ontario.

Wetlands provide tremendous economic benefits. Ontario's $3.3 billion recreational fishing and $2 billion wildlife-related industries rely heavily on wetlands.

"The need for an agreement of this magnitude has never been more urgent," said Ducks Unlimited Director of Regional Operations Ted Gadawski. "In southern Ontario alone, more than 80 per cent of wetlands have been lost. Together, our organizations can make a huge contribution to the future of the vital wetland resource in Ontario."

The agreement specifies roles and responsibilities for each organization in the areas of wetland policy, wetland management, use of Crown lands, private land stewardship, communications, environmental review, science transfer, resource planning, information management and administration.

"Wetlands are a critical component of the natural ecosystems on which we depend for our survival," Hodgson continued. "They are among the most productive and biologically diverse habitats on the planet. With this agreement the government is taking steps to ensure the protection of thousands of plant and animal species, and the protection of the surface water and ground water resources upon which our economy and our health depend."

Joyce Weir opens at Agnes Jamieson Gallery

Painter concentrates on wildlife

Wildlife watercolor painter Joyce Weir refuses to credit painting with making her look and act younger than her years, "but it certainly keeps your mind going. Painting involves concentration and patience," Weir explains.

A show of 20 Weir watercolors opened at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery last weekend and will run until May 24. (See photo opposite.) Most are wild animals and birds, but there also are flowers and horses.

Weir, 64, moved to Dunsford, near Bobcaygeon, when her husband retired in 1989. Their home is near Sturgeon Lake, a perfect place to see great blue herons, red tail hawks, ospreys and great grey owls, the stars of her paintings.

"I always loved to draw, even as a child," Weir recalls. However she did not start painting until 1982, as a hobby. She tried acrylic, "but that just wasn't my medium. I just couldn't get the right feel for it." Oils came next "but that lasted only about an hour and a half," Weir said. One reason is she obviously had an allergy to something. "And the smells stayed in the house for months, even with all the windows open.

"Then I tried watercolors, and I've never looked back....It is not a forgiving medium. If you make a mistake in it doing wildlife or birds....you might as well throw it out," Weir said.

One reason is that Weir's paintings are filled with little bits of detail. "You sure picked a tough area," Weir said she was told when, as a beginner, she concentrated on animals. "But all my life, I've always been a wildlife lover." This, despite growing up in Toronto.

Three years ago Weir had to take a forced vacation from painting because of cataracts in both eyes. "That was an awful time. I was legally blind. I couldn't see five feet in front of me."

Now, after two operations, she has 20/20 vision with the help of glasses, and is painting even more enthusiastically than before. "You don't appreciate your eyes until they go."

With her new vision, Weir is taking on another kind of art, one that requires keen eyesight and maximum concentration. She is doing black and white drawings, achieved with pen and ink dots. The work is so intricate and hard on the eyes, that she must take a break every 10 minutes. Right now she is working on a bald eagle. Because none of these drawings is framed, they are not included in this show.

Weir's most valuable critic is her husband, David. "He doesn't know anything about art...but he knows when something is missing, when something is not right." She leaves her unfinished paintings propped up so both she and David can see them as they walk by. He knows when she has got it right.

Clarene Brown's painted canvas floor covers also are being shown at the Jamieson this month.

Weekend for renewal

Reverend Tom Bandy, seen here leading one of the sessions, was the keynote speaker during a weekend seminar held April 25-27 at the Minden United Church. Entitled 'The Thriving Rural Church into the Twenty-first Century', the sessions examined what causes some rural churches to experience a decline in membership while others thrive, and how congregations can help ensure their's is one that grows. The seminar drew United Church participants from throughout the Lindsay Presbytery (northern region) as well as welcoming members and ministers from other denominations.

Moose tag application deadline May 15

The headline on the story about moose tag applications in last week's issue of The Times indicated that hunters had a month to apply when, in fact the deadline is May 15. Moose hunters now have less than two weeks to get their applications in.

We apologize for the misleading headline.

Three miles a day....every day

by Morris Duff

Dr. Maurice Smith walks three miles a day...
...seven days a week...
...regardless of the weather...
...and accompanying him on every walk is his 11 year old dog, Tigger.

"He's a little like his owner, pretty grey," Dr. Smith says. "But we're both fit, very fit."

The three miles a day, up hills and down dales, is Smith's medical advice to himself. It's also the advice he gives his patients at the Lions Medical Clinic in Minden.

It is delightful around town to see all these little old ladies walking along," Smith adds. "They greet each other, 'Oh, you must be one of Dr. Smith's patients too.'"

It's also the reason why Smith is a supporter of Sneaker Day. Minden's third annual Sneaker Day walk will be held during the noon hour on Friday May 16, beginning at the gazebo beside the Gull River bridge.

This year's route will let walkers discover the new wilderness path which heads east off Main Street, south of the library.

Sneaker Day is part of a coast to coast Health Canada campaign to promote healthy summer activities. The aim is to show that walking is both enjoyable and good for you.

Smith lives on Hall's Lake. He and Tigger walk over all the hills on Highland Road from his home to Highway 35 and back. The terrain is level at first, so the pair starts slowly and warms up. Then they tackle the hills walking at a good rate to exercise their hearts. As the walk nears the end, they return to level ground where they can cool down. He tells his patients to warm up and slow down too.

Exercise is important for cardiac patients, diabetics, people with breathing problems and osteoporosis patients, Smith says. It also prevents these diseases.

He urges seniors to aim for a mile in 15 to 20 minutes. But he cautions against trying to reach that speed until some fitness is achieved. Start more slowly and build up. "Ideally one should be targeting 17 miles a week, eventually...."

Commenting on jogging as an exercise, Smith says, "I don't like running at all. It is too hard on the knees, ankles and hips for people over 35."

Walk summer and winter, Smith urges. In the cold weather, dress warmly, including long johns. People with breathing problems should have scarves across their mouths on windy days. "Many elderly people are afraid of falling. I urge them to go to Archie Stouffer School." People are allowed to walk the halls before the children arrive, beginning at 7.30 a.m.

Smith also recommends aqua fitness in the Pinestone Inn pool. That program is operated by the Haliburton County Home Support Services. It is particularly good for keeping seniors flexible, he said.

Scottish Country Dancing is another exercise that he does and recommends. A local group meets Monday evenings at the Orange Lodge Hall in Haliburton. Smith took it up in Scotland in 1968. He had to quit briefly after he had a heart attack in 1990, but only for about eight weeks. He then made sure that his dancing was not strenuous. New people are always welcome with the Scottish dancers and are worked in gradually.

Smith has been an enthusiast for walking since suffering that heart attack. He credits his walking program for bringing his health back to the point where his annual stress test has his cardiologist telling him, "Get out of here. You're O.K."

"Dieting is fine," Smith says, "but if you want to lose weight and keep it off, exercise is necessary too....To be successful it is a question of changing one's lifestyle. One must avoid the food that puts it on....All of us in North America get far too much fat."

Skeletons in your closet?

Research confirms that regular "weight bearing activity" (walking, dancing) will help build and preserve healthy bones.

Some of the many volunteers who were honoured recently at a recognition evening sponsored by the Women's Emergency House in Haliburton. As the article below points out, the WEH is currently seeking new community funding sources.

Womens Emergency House seeking new funding sources

-submitted-

Since its opening, Women's Emergency House has provided 600 nights of safety to women and children. Almost all who stayed at the House have been from this county. The usage has increased dramatically over the past six months and the House has often been full.

Women's Emergency House is an original model of service provision - it is different from shelters because:

1. the community built the house;
2. volunteers support women and children using the House (rather than paid staff); and

3. it receives no government funding.

A similar sized shelter would cost about $600,000 per year to operate. Women's Emergency House (WEH) has been operating on about ten percent of that amount.

Since the opening, volunteers at WEH have provided over 13,500 hours of service! Volunteers are the "heart of the House" and vital to the success of this model of service. There is one full-time paid coordinator to support 33 trained in-house volunteers. At this time it is necessary to hire additional staff to meet the growing demand for service, and to recruit more volunteers. SIRCH is also looking for live-in support people and phone volunteers.

Women's Emergency House has relied heavily on fundraising and the "foundation of friends" (people who donate a monthly or annual contribution to the House.) That funding is not sufficient and SIRCH will be looking for ways of raising money to support the House. Women and children who have used Women's Emergency House have expressed to the coordinator how thankful they feel toward the Haliburton County community for providing this safe haven that allows them to remain near family, friends, work and schools.

A book has been written about SIRCH Women's Emergency House, because it is a viable alternative for rural and isolated communities that cannot access government funding. SIRCH has received numerous requests from communities that are interested in replicating our model. The requests have come from Japan, New Zealand, Holland, Zimbabwe, South Africa, as well as many parts of Canada and the States. Lon Duncombe is currently updating and revising the book and copies will be available this summer.

To sustain its role of service to the community, the Women's Emergency House is searching for new fundraising ideas. Groups or individuals who would like to contribute to or start a fund raising effort on behalf of the "foundation of friends", to ensure that there is local emergency housing for women and their children experiencing abuse, please call 458-1742. SIRCH Women's Emergency House is a project of which this community can be proud. Please continue to support this essential service.

'Aunt Marj' celebrates 95 years

-submitted-

A wonderful opportunity was granted last Sunday (April 27) for the many friends and church family of Marjorie Johnson, to enable us to gather together and share a glorious afternoon of fellowship and celebrate her birth date that is 95 years young. (The actual birthday was May 2.)

Not too many folks reach this golden age and are alert enough to enjoy the event. Not only is Marjorie alert, she is seen (with faithful friend Peppie, her dog) going jauntily from table to table, talking, laughing and sharing her joy with everyone there and later to be seen enthusiastically enjoying the bountiful pot luck luncheon that was held at Halls Lake Community Church.

Marjorie Johnson and 'Peppie'.

Those who know Marjorie are truly blessed. This woman has dedicated her life to serving the Lord and walking in the path He has directed her to. After serving as a missionary in Ethiopia for many years, she returned, thank the Lord, to the Minden area to begin her long ministry here. Her endless energy was divided between the young and old, while attending Minden Gospel Church and Halls Lake Community Church and leading the H.H.K. (Haliburton Highlands Kids Club) at Halls Lake. She is a treasured Sister in Christ to many, whose teachings and examples set by her daily living have been an inspiration to us.

She is the beloved "Aunt Marj" to most of the young folks at Halls Lake who have been blessed just by knowing her and attending her club events. Today, she is still, at 95, counselling young and old alike, whenever and whatever the need.

She is a constant witness to our Lord, who without hesitation will expound with great joy and peace, telling all and anyone about the Lord she loves with all her heart and His great Love for us.

To know her is to love her and we love you Aunt Marj. Happy 95th. May God continue to bless you and bless us with your presence for many years to come.

Surrounded by her friends at Halls Lake Community Church, Marjorie Johnson was the guest of honour at a celebration marking her 95th birthday. Marjorie served as a missionary in Africa for many years before returning to the Minden area where she continues her service to the church.

Colour's return lifts the spirits at Hyland Crest

What a difference a week makes! Things are greening up and colour is appearing in the flower beds with some spring bulbs.

It was good to have the Grandfathers with us on the 25th for our Happy Hour, but there is still a gap. We miss you Bill and will be happy to see you back again.

Nina Prentice and her daughter were in Lindsay for the weekend visiting Nina's sister. While there, they had the opportunity of seeing a long-time school friend - a friendship that has lasted 71 years. Friendship is certainly precious to us all.

We regret the passing of Edith Luke on April 28. Edith was in her 85th year and a resident of the area for many years. Our sympathy goes to her family and friends.

Welcome back Beth and Fred Parker from Florida. It was good to see you on your recent visit to us. They were volunteers at our home for many years.

On the 30th a full busload left for a visit to Minden IGA. Items purchased on the shopping trip will be donated by residents of Hyland Crest to the local food bank. We visit Valu-mart next week.

That evening we were entertained by a local musical group led by Toos Reid, "In Harmony" - they were great and we hope they will visit us again.

Birthday wishes go out to Harold Sawyer, 87 on May 5; Beatrice Tustin, 82 on May 6 and Lucille Clark, 93 on May 8. Happy birthday to the three of you.

Today as we write this, we are looking forward to our tea party which will be served by the ladies of Minden Legion. We are sure to enjoy the goodies.

On May 5 a group of us will be going on a spring shopping trip to Huntsville.

Now is a good time to remind you that we need donations for our upcoming Flea Market in July and also tickets are available for our hand-made quilt.

Keep smiling - talk with you next week.

Senior League

Staanworth helps the Trodd's 65th celebration

Wow...when you reach 65 years of marriage the party just goes on and on...family and friends of Len and Mable Trodd gathered at Staانworth Court to help continue the celebrations. Their five children, ten grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren plus friends in the area enjoyed the reminiscing - laughter could be heard up and down the halls. A big surprise for the happy couple was the visit of granddaughter Sue Noble from Surrey, B.C. Now, we just settle back and wait for the next celebration!

All the residents are happy these days to look out their windows and see shades of green and a variety of happy birds enjoying sun and trees.

A hungry group of folks took their appetites to a local restaurant, savouring the change in diet and not having to "do dishes!"

We are glad to see Art Marsh back with us after a stay in hospital.

If spring has really arrived, we will be seeing more happy faces out for walks - and cleaning windows!

Just remember "In spite of cold and chills that usher in the spring, we have the daffodils."

CALL FOR PROPOSALS DESTINATION GUIDE

The Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce is calling for proposals to produce their 1998 Destination Guide. These proposals are intended to be for all aspects of the development of this proposed publication. The proposals should include, but may not be limited to, how the proponent intends to address:

- the sale of advertising
- the collection of advertising sales
- creative
- printing
- editorial
- all specifications
- all terms
- distribution of the guides

Proponents should be aware that:

75,000 copies of the Guide must be printed, and that the Guide must be printed and initial distribution complete by December 1, 1997 and that the remaining Guides not distributed at that time, be inside the office of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce by 4:00 p.m., December 5, 1997.

All responses must be in the form of a letter of intent that commits the proponent to make an in-person presentation to the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce Destination Guide Sub-Committee, at their convenience. The due date for receiving letters of intent is no later than 4:00 p.m., May 10, 1997, in the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce office in Minden.

Proposals are to be addressed to: Ms. Connie Sims, President, Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 147, Minden, ON K0M 2K0. Marked "Destination Guide". Tel: (705) 286-1760; Fax: (705) 286-6016.

Six reasons computers must be female:

1. As soon as you have one, a better one is just around the corner.
2. No one but the creator understands their internal logic.
3. Even your smallest mistakes are committed to memory.
4. The language used to communicate with other computers is incomprehensible to everyone else.
5. The message "bad command" or "file name" is about as informative as "if you don't know why I'm mad at you, then I'm certainly not going to tell".
6. As soon as you make a commitment to one, you find yourself spending half your paycheck on accessories.

The Minden Horticultural Society invites your support. Please purchase a $3 membership which will enable the members to maintain flower beds and barrels throughout the Minden community. Joining the group does not mean you need to be an avid gardener, it just means that a broader membership will enable them to have more interesting monthly programs. A member of the society may be ringing your doorbell sometime this month. Please help them achieve their goals.

The Lung Association is offering help for persons living with lung disease by offering a one day seminar on Monday, May 12 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Civitan House in Cobocok. This one day seminar, "Breathe Easy", will cover medications and how to use them, breathing control and energy conservation plus answering any questions you may have. Interested persons are asked to register at Coby Pharmacy or directly to The Lung Association, 22 Lindsay St. North, Lindsay, Ont. K9V 1T5. For more information, call 324-6497.

The Alzheimer Society of Peterborough and Area annual raffle will be held on Wednesday, May 21 at 8 p.m. in the Marycrest Home for the Aged auditorium, 200 St. Luke's Ave. Peterborough. Tickets are available by calling the office at 705-748-5131.

This was sent in by one of our faithful readers: "Marrying a man is like buying something you have been admiring for a long time in a shop window. You may love it when you get it home but it doesn't always go with everything else in the house".

Pritchard House, the new home of the Haliburton Highlands Handweavers and Spinners group, is opening on Saturday, May 17 at 9 a.m. Gifts, flea market, bake sale and demonstrations of weaving, spinning and kool-ade dying will be featured that day. The group is presently in need of chairs, tables and furnishings, so if you have something to donate please contact Jean Bolt 286-6531 or Jean Farrell 286-2843. Your help would be most appreciated.

It was nice to see our main street so clean for the Lions parade last Saturday. Let us all do our part to keep it that way by not littering. It would be nice if the town put back the extra garbage cans that were taken away last fall so we could help in other ways.

The public is invited to attend a free informative exhibition this Tuesday at HHSS presented by the students of the Entrepreneurial Class. The evening, which includes a variety of exhibits and runs from 7 to 9 p.m. will showcase franchising.

Those attending St. Paul's Friendship Club really enjoy their euchre every week and they would like to extend an invitation to all players to join them at 1:30 p.m. each Monday. Last week Iris Taylor had the most lone hands while Nancy Gayton and Gladys Wruth had the high scores. Nancy also won the 50/50 draw.

The Stanhope Bridge group had a spirited afternoon last Tuesday. A grand slam was bid and made by Wynne Hansen and Hans Saamen. Coming first in high score was Vange Croucher, followed by Hans Saamen and Dorothy Strype. A special thanks to Helen Rice and Russ Fair who looked after bridge all winter--they did a fine job. Their efforts are appreciated by all the bridge players.

Club 35 euchre results from last week were quite impressive with Jean Randell taking both the lone hand award and the baloney award. High scores went to Helen Windsor and Murray Daniels while low scores went to Marjorie Cowen and Harry Randell. There was a special award which Alf Whyman received. Bill Jordan got in there too by winning the 50/50 draw. Join these good folks every Monday at 7:30 p.m. No partners needed.

Seniors bid euchre played in the Minden Legion produced the following top winners: Norm Lee first; Ellie Langpohl second; and Marcel Roussel third. Grace Dixon had the hidden score with moonshots by Marie Dennie (2), Kay Smith and Norm Lee. Meet every Tuesday at 1:30 p.m.

The Gelert Community Centre played host last week to a very good crowd of euchre players-- seven and a half tables worth to be exact. Isobel Saunders and Harold Harvie had the distinction of having the high scores while May Hicks and Merv Gilbert had the low scores Bob Dick did well too by having the most lone hands. Alternate each week, (Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m.), between Lochlin and Gelert Community Centres. This week join them in Lochlin -- they'll make you feel right at home.

On Wednesday, April 23 bid euchre was played in the Stanhope Firefighters Hall and Jean Scadden got a 283 followed by Marg McAfee 280, Marg Fletcher 277, Don Burch 271, Gala Stamp 254 and Milt Fletcher 245. They also managed to impress everyone by getting 3 moonshots. Come join the fun every Wednesday at 7 p.m.

On Thursday, April 24 euchre was played in the Minden Legion and Pat Roussel and Marg McAfee captured the most lone hands while Thelme Francis and Iris Taylor captured the high scores. Low scores went to Sandy Kieckhoefer, Cliff Woolner, Tony Kenneth, Gala Stamp, Carol Hill and Helen Skelding. Meet every Thursday at 7:15 p.m.

HEALTH NEWS

(More input from the May 16 Sneaker Day walk committee:)

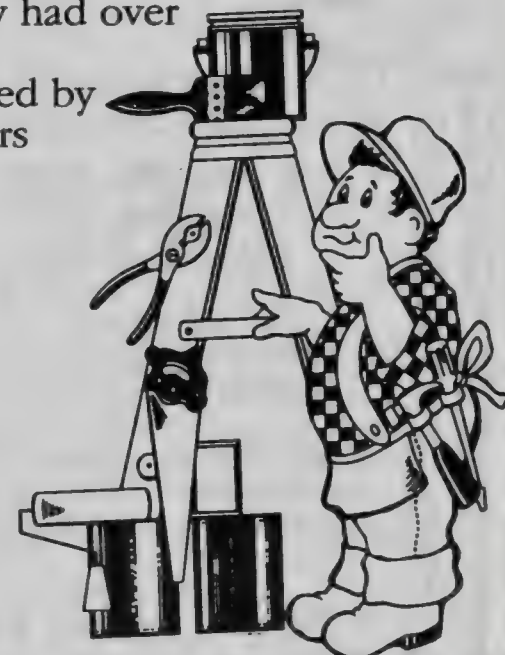

"Regular physical activity, when properly undertaken, can be effective in preventing and limiting the disabling effects of heart disease and stroke. A primary benefit of regular physical activity is protection against coronary heart disease. Moderate physical activity can reduce by up to 66% the risk of stroke. Being active is also associated with better self-esteem and less stress".

CARDS OF THANKS

THANK YOU

Len and Mable Trodd would like to thank their family and friends for the wonderful celebration of their 65th wedding anniversary.

We would like to express our appreciation for the love and support shown to our mother over the years. Thanks also to all who sent cards, made memorial donations and sent flowers at the times of her death. We appreciate your thoughtfulness and generosity. A special thank you to the administration and staff at Extendicare Haliburton for the loving care she received while a resident there. Thanks also to Rev. Walford-Davis for his words of comfort and Gordon Monk Funeral Home for their caring, professional assistance.
The Family of the Late Annie Kernohan.

CARDS OF THANKS

My warm and sincere thank-you to everyone for all your prayers, cards, flowers and phone calls during my stay at the Peterborough Civic Hospital.
Sincerely, Alex Stevenson.

THANK YOU

To my staff and family for the surprise OPEN HOUSE. If it was not for the support of my staff, we wouldn't have the clientele we do. I would also like to thank my friends and clients for their patronage over the past thirty-five years.

Donald J. Finn.

IN MEMORIAM

PHILLIPS, Blanche Nesbitt
- In loving memory of a dear Mother and grandmother who passed away October 16, 1993.

We mention your name
And speak of your often,
God Bless you dear Mother
You are not forgotten.
Sadly missed by: *David,
Donnie, Dougie, Glen, Dolly & Rosie.*

SHERMAN, Percy M. - In
loving memory of a dear husband, Percy, who passed away
May 8, 1996.

*Your memory lives within my heart
And there it will remain,
To walk with me
Throughout my life
Until we meet again.
Lovingly remembered by your wife,
Florence (Flossie).*

IN MEMORIAM

BAKER, Wesley F. - May 5,
1994.
Always remembered
Always missed.
Wife Ethel and Family.

CALVERLEY, Catherine
(Cath) - Lost to us May 3, 1992.
*A million times I've needed you
A million times I've cried,
If love could have saved you
dear*

*You never would have died.
Things we feel most deeply
Are the hardest things to say,
My Dearest...I loved you
In a very special way.
If I could have one lifetime wish
One dream that could come true,
I'd pray to God with all my heart
For yesterday and you.
Love Ya,
Jack XXX*
